

When Da Costa Inc committed to building a classroom for Bridges of Hope, we were also committing to building a future for underprivileged children – so we needed the fastest and most practical solution. 27 children are depending on us to give them a chance at early education.

We are literally converting an old pigsty into a bright, happy classroom, and it's taking some doing! While the amazing Sharon Aurets who runs Bridges of Hope for Children put her practical skills to work tiling the floor, while Annabelle kept little hands and feet out of the paint.
